SALT LAKE

CITY AND NEIGHBORHOOD.

This is generally supposed to be the dull season in the commercial world, but the hotelkeepers assert that an average number of commercial travelers are picking up at their respective hostelries.The Rev. William H. Fish, Jr., pastor of the First Unitarian church, has received $2,000 from friends in Boston to go toward the erection of a new church building in this city. Work has already begun on the structure, and quite a sum has been raised by the local congregation. It is understood the new building will be dedicated before winter.The reports received by State Health Officer L. T. D. Beatty show that there is less contagion in Utah at the present time than there has been at any time since the state board of health was organized. In fact, they show that the state is almost free of the various contagious diseases that usually are so prevalent at this season of the year.The letting of the contract for constructing the San Pedro road from Caliente to the southwest is evidence that the promises made by the projectors of the line, to connect this city directly with Los Angeles will be fulfilled.
Eighty-five miles of roadbed is a big job, and the cost is placed approximately at $2,000,000. The Utah Construction company has secured the contract, and will go at the work promptly and complete it as soon as possible.Glen Miller, president of the Home Investment company, returned Monday from an extensive eastern trip. He reports that business conditions in the east are not at present nearly so good as in the west, due to the uneasiness caused by the Wall street flurries. The trouble there, however, was not felt west of Cleveland, most of the pinch coming from New York operators. Money is cheaper in Salt Lake now, Mr. Miller says, than in the East, loans on gilt-edged securities in New York being made regularly at 7 per cent, for six months.A glance at the assessment figures just made public by the state board of equalization, will convince the most skeptical of the wonderful growth in Utah's material wealth. The total valuation for assessment purposes of railroads, telegraph and telephone lines and the net proceeds of mines is $25,- 417,971, an increase of $2,333,131 over that for 1902. This increase has not been brought about, the board states, by the adoption of any new basis of valuation, but is due wholly to the natural growth and advancement of these interests.Peter Mortensen, the slayer of James H. Ray, has been denied a new trial by the supreme court of this state. The unanimous opinion of the court is that no error was committed at the trial of the case which would entitle Mortensen to a new trial, and the lower court is instructed to proceed in the case in accordance with the law.A news reporter saw Mortensen at the state prison at noon of the day the court decision was given out. He was seated in his cell on "Mortensen's Row," after having partaken of a hearty dinner. When told of what the supreme court had done he turned his head in a semi-thoughtful way and then smilingly said, "Is that so?" When asked what he was going to do about it, he replied, "I don't know what I am going to do about it. I suppose I will have to try something else." Then he became non-communicative and refused to talk further.Comfort can be enjoyed only by those whose money affairs cause no worry.
To be "comfortably rich" is an ideal condition, enjoyed by few, and yet within the reach of all. A steady increase from money invested in safe curities is a source of comfort and pleasure. When that income is sufficient to live on, the possessor is as rich as any one can possibly be. There is no need then to work and worry, and there is time for the higher pleasures of life. Happily, too, such investments are in the long run more profitable than speculations. Our first mortgage securities, netting 6 per cent per annum, are the safest and best investments. The investor holds the security and we do the work. McGinnis & Co., investment

OGDEN CITY.

Chairman Kiesel of the national irrigation congress received a telegram from Adolphus Busch, dated at Lang-den, Schwaibach, Germany, offering a $500 silver loving cup as a prize to be awarded at the congress to the person presenting the best exhibit of hops raised in the arid sections of the west.
Mr. Busch is the president of the famous Anheuser-Busch Brewing company of St. Louis. Following is his message:"I am heartily with you, and wish the American irrigation congress every success. Please offer for our company a $500 silver loving cup as a grand prize for the best exhibit of hops grown in arid states and territories and shown at your congress."Besides this there are several other prizes for the best exhibit of hops at Lucin cut-off of the Central Pacific across the Great Salt lake will be completed Sept. 1. There are several short gaps in the trestle work to be closed and the engineers think this will occupy the remainder of the season. At the end of that time construction trains will be run across, to be followed by freight trains. The statement is made that the embankment has settled but little recently in the quagmire sections and that the engineers believe the worst is over.

PARK CITY.

Death and Funeral Obsequies of Miss Catherine Leahy.(Special Correspondence.)
The many friends of Miss Catherine Leahy of Park City were pained to learn of her death, which occurred at her home Monday evening, Aug. 10, at 6 o'clock. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. Leahy, and besides her sorrowing mother leaves a sister and three brothers to mourn her loss. Their grief is doubtless augmented by the fact that it is scarcely a year since an older daughter and sister, Mrs. Mc-Ginnis, was snatched from their happy home circle by the hand of death.Besides the tender affections of her relatives now so severely torn by this bereavement, Miss Leahy leaves a sweet and kindly memory in the hearts of all who knew her. At the convent school, which she attended from her early years, St. Mary's of the Assumption, Park City—she left an enviable record, the Sisters of the Holy Cross holding her in the highest appreciation as a pupil. Among her numerous friends she enjoyed the esteem and accorded true worth and merit, and the sweet odor of her virtues and good example will linger long in the pathways her footsteps have trodden. It seemed but fitting that her good life, so marked especially in those long days of illness by patience and faithful piety, should be crowned by a good and happy death, comforted as she was but a few hours before passing the dark portal by the sweet consolations of the faith she so lovingly professed.Her funeral took place Thursday morning from the Catholic church, where a requiem mass was celebrated by Father Galligan, who paid a glowing tribute to the deceased young lady.
The ceremonies at the church a large funeral cortege proceeded to the railway station, where the funeral train was in readiness to bear the remains to their resting place at Mount Olivet cemetery, Salt Lake City, where interment occurred. Rev. Father Mc-Ginnis of the cathedral parish officiated at the grave. May her sweet soul rest in peace.A delightful surprise was given on Ireland at St. Louis.

(Dublin Freeman, July 25.)

A project which has powerful sentimental and solid attractions is described in our column today in an interview with Dr. J. J. Kane and Mr.
P. J. O'Brien, who have come to Ir-land as ambassadors from our fellow-countrymen in the United States. Next year the greatest exhibition the world has yet seen will be held at St. Louis, in which city these gentlemen are residents, and they have come to organize a separate exhibit for Ireland.As usual, the British officials proposed to give Ireland's corner in the British exhibit, but Irish-American enthusiasm revolted at this and to use the words of one of the delegation, their scheme is, in this year Eiremet's centenary, to give Ireland a place of her own among the nations of the world. The exhibition authorities are agreeable, and American feeling generally is consistent with the idea of this recognition of Ireland's nationality. To Ireland it is a gratifying compliment of character to be invited to exhibit. But the material value is also full of promise.An Irish National World's Fair association has been in existence in St.
Louis for over twelve months. It is composed of wealthy and representative men, many with Irish names like the Rev. D. S. Phelan, editor of The Western Watchman, Judge J. B. Kennedy and the Hon. J. P. W. White, with Mr.
James A. Reardon as president. The association is prepared to provide at the exhibition a suitable separate pavilion for the Irish exhibit. It has sent the delegates to Ireland already referred to, to visit to this country to organize the Irish part of the scheme. Dr. Kane is a leading physician in St. Louis, and Mr. P. J. O'Brien occupies a prominent position in the American railway world.
They have credentials from the mayor of St. Louis (Mr. Rolla Wells) and the president of the United Irish league of St. Louis (Mr. John Devoy).Although it is only a few days since their arrival, they have already had interviews with Mr. P. T. Gill, secretary of the department of agriculture, and the lord mayor of Dublin. Mr.
Gill was able to assure them of no opposition from the British royal commission and of the co-operation of himself and Mr. Horace Plunkett, with the resources of the department, in providing worthy exhibits for the Irish pavilion. The lord mayor has undertaken to assist in forming a working committee on this side.After the experience gained at Glasgow and Cork, the department ought to have no difficulty in making a creditable and interesting contribution to the exhibits, and the lord mayor's committee should be useful in giving representative ideas, approval and support. Irish industries, representing, if possible, every county in Ireland, are what the World's Fair association would like to display. We have not a great field to draw from, but in some departments we can challenge comparison. In shipbuilding, models of the mammoth Atlantic liners from Belfast will be unique. In lace we can challenge comparison for artistic beauty and variety with France and England.
Irish markets will be a revelation to many of the visitors. The fair, our cloths and carpets, and various other crafts and arts, will prove to our excited brethren, our American friends, and their cosmopolitan visitors that if we have not a share of the world's trade we have something of industrial skill, and that as compared with the show we were wont to make at Chicago some ten years ago, we have made considerable advances all along the line.That the special attention given to Ireland will bring forth the best of the makers of the goods displayed is obvious. Our imports from the UnitedStates are comparatively large, and it would be a great blessing if we could exchange in increasing quantities some of our products, either raw or manufactured, which would have a sentimental, as well as an artistic value, among the people of the United States.
France and Germany do very well in these small trades, and there is a field for Ireland in this department in America. No effort should be neglected in making the Irish national exhibit at St. Louis the very best conceivable. It is a grand opportunity. Not to make the most of it would be the loss of a tide in our industrial affairs which may lead to fortune.
